THE PRIME MINISTER

30 April 2012

Mr Jaideep Dhaliwal,

Thank you, and Roop Tara, for your letter of 2 March outlining the success of your company, 'Ovation', which was passed to this office by Edward Garnier QC MP. I understand that you also wrote to the Deputy Prime Minister and Ministers at the Department for Education in similar terms.

I am pleased to see the good work that 'Ovation' is doing in developing a range of products offering information and advice on applying for jobs. We owe our young people the very best support on their transition into adulthood and the world of work. Everyone should have the opportunity to develop the skills, qualifications and experience they need to succeed in their careers and achieve their potential.

The achievements of your company are impressive and it is always encouraging to see young people come together to take such positive, responsible and community-spirited action to make a better future for themselves and for others. I hope that this venture has given you a real insight into entrepreneurship and business that will stand you in good stead for the future.

Thank you for writing, and I wish you and your company every continued success.

Yours sincerely,
David Cameron

Mr Jaideep Dhaliwal
